WILLIAM GREEN, head of the Federation of Labor, says the working week should be reduced to five thus ending unemployment.

There is no doubt that machinery produces faster than consumers use its products under our social system.

There is no doubt that in ordinary times machinery, with men working six days, produces too much, making men idle.

And there is no doubt that men got to live; no nation could HALF STARVED AND HALF FED.

"If all the human beings on earth, from Peking to Paris and from Paris to Rome," had all they need, clothes, automobiles, radios, washing machines, there would be overproduction; in fact ,not nearly enough. # TWO YOUTHS ROBBED AFTER CAR WRECKED

Trio Force Cleveland Boys' Auto into Ditch North of Marion

BOTH HURT IN CRASH

Walk 10 Miles to City After Early Morning Holdup.

Police today were searching for three men, one a foreigner, who forced the machine of two Cleveland youths, Alex Tehrand and W. J. Frawley, off the road on state route No. 4, 10 miles north of Marion yesterday between 4:30 and 5 a. m. and robbed them of $11.

Forced Into Ditch

According to the story of the youths, they were driving toward Marion enroute to Urbana when a Chevrolet coupe containing three men passed them at high speed. The boys thought nothing of it but noticed that the coupe turned around about a quarter of a mile down the road.

As the Chevrolet neared the Ford it swerved and Tehrand who was driving was forced to twist the wheel, sending the car into the ditch to avoid a crash. The Chevrolet continued down the road until the numbers on the license plates were not visible and stopped.

The men alighted presumably to come back and aid the youths but when they neared Frawley and Tehrand they demanded the boys' money. Neither of the youths were in any condition to resist and handed over what money they had Seven dollars was taken from Tehrand and $4 from Frawley.

Walk to Marion

After the men had relieved the boys of their money they ran to their car and drove north on the highway in the direction of Bucyrus. The youths walked to Marion where they notified the police.

The wheels on the right side of the Ford and the rear window and side windows were broken, the axles bent and the front seat torn from its position. The wrecked car was towed to the Ford garage here.

Two stitches were required to close the gash in Tehrand's right hand and he suffered a cut on the head. Frawley received small scratches about the hands and face. A meager description of the men was given police by the boys.

Tehrand and Frawley were employed by the Big Four railroad in Cleveland and Police Chief W. E. Marks wired officials there of the boys' plight. Arrangements were made for their return to Cleveland.

Police Continue Efforts To Make Hymie "Talk"

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, April 13 — With eight days remaining before "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin will be taken to Ohio penitentiary to begin his life sentence for the murder of former Councilman William E. Potter, detectives today were to make a renewed effort to get the convicted slayer to "tell" all he knows of the brutal slaying.

Stating that Martin had not yet "talked," Detective Inspector Cornelius Cody said he would "give Martin every opportunity to come clean and name the men who were his accomplices in the Potter killing."

Women's Speed Record Is Broken by Ruth Nichols

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 13—Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., aviatrix, set a new speed record for women over a three kilometer course here this morning, with a speed of 210.685 miles per hour. Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam held the previous record of 181.157 miles an hour.

Ruth Nichols

Taking off from the Grosse Isle airport at 6:50 a. m. to avoid crosswinds, forecast for later in the day, Miss Nichols, flying the Lockheed - Vega plane in which she set the women's altitude record last month, sped over an official course laid out near the flying field

Harry H. Knepper of the National Aeronautical association, checked the flight, and R. A. Leavell, another aeronautical official, timed the race. Knepper said an official reading must be taken from the barograph in her plane, that the flight may be certified.

Miss Nichols made two round trips over the course and the speed was the average of the four timings. In the trips against the wind she was timed at 191.036 and 202.814 miles an hour, and with the wind the times were 221.825 and 226.880.

The barograph certification will be necessary to determine if she maintained the required 1,000 feet of altitude.

The plane used was rebuilt last summer by William S. Brock of Detroit and was used by him to set two transcontinental speed records between Jacksonville, Fla., and San Diego, Calif.

Miss Nichols, member of a prominent family at Rye, N. Y., has been styled America's "society" aviatrix.

PRAISES WORK OF RED CROSS

"Great Ideal" Preserved in Drouth Aid Plan, Hoover Tells Convention.

THREAT OF DOLE AVOIDED

Congratulates Organization for Rejecting Federal Fund of $25,000,000.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 13—President Hoover today told the Red Cross it had helped to preserve the "great ideal" of voluntary aid by avoiding a "step on the pathway of government doles."

Opening the annual convention of the relief organization, Mr. Hoover, its president, said its "farsighted action" had solved the "problem of famine in over 2,000,000 people," and saved them from "infinite suffering."

He devoted his address entirely to the Red Cross drouth relief work. He congratulated the society on its momentous decision, "in refusing to accept a $25,000,000 federal appropriation which a coalition of Democrats and Republican independents got through the senate last session but which the house rejected.

Pictures Escape from Dole

"If your officers had yielded on this occasion," he said, "the Red Cross would have been rendered impotent in the face of every future national emergency, for it would have been inevitable to turn to the government and the taxpayer; it would have meant the destruction of the spirit of the Red Cross and it would have been the destruction of something even greater than any voluntary service ...it would have injured the spiritual responses of the American people. It would have been a step on the pathway of government doles.

"You have proved yourselves not only a practical instrument of mercy and relief," he added, "but you have renewed and invigorated the spiritual life of the nation."

Excerpts from the President's address follow:

"'I am particularly glad to welcome this annual convention of the American Red Cross. During this past year this great mutual institution of the whole people has been put again to severe tests, not only as to its practical ability to meet national disaster but a test involving its whole moral and spiritual purpose. You have, under most difficult handicaps, again demonstrated that it can meet and

SEVEN DIE IN PLANE CRASHES

Heavy Toll of Life Exacted in Numerous Week-End Aircraft Accidents.

By The Associated Press

Airplane accidents caused the deaths of seven pilots or their passengers Sunday.

George Wein, chief pilot for the Curtis-Wright airport at Milwaukee, and his mechanic, Carl Jantz, were killed when a control wire snapped on their plane and sent them crashing 300 feet to the ground.

The right wing of the craft piloted by Gertin A. Munson, 30, buckled as a left bank was attempted, and Munson and W. H. Portman, 24, were killed at Houston, Texas.

At Sodus, N. Y., Hugh Shipley, Putneyville farmer, and Homer Potwone, garage employe, riding in a plane piloted by Robert Loope, were killed in a fall from an altitude of 300 feet. Loope was uninjured, but was so nervous following the fall that he could not give a coherent account of the fatal dive.

Walter Frick, 26, secretary of the Gray Eagle flying service of Marion, Ill., was killed when stunting at the Marion airport.

William Davis, 47, sufferer a fractured skull and a crushed right leg in a fall of 500 feet before 4,000 spectators at Hasbrouck, N. J.

Three Pittsburgh men today were recovering from injuries received when their airplane turned over in a forced landing in Seven Hills village, east of Cleveland.

They were W. R. Scully, 24, who has several fractured ribs; Francis James, 22, whose right leg was broken; and Kelmen J. Eredky, 24, pilot, who was shaken up.

They were flying from Detroit to Pittsburgh, intending to stop at the Cleveland airport. In the darkness they overran it and were forced to land in an unlighted field when their gas supply was exhausted. The plane, which was badly damaged, nosed over, throwing Scully and James on the ground.

FARMERS OBJECT

Troops Asked in Iowa To Enforce T. B. Herd Testing.

TIPTON, Ia., April 13—The use of state troops, if necessary to assure enforcement of the state tuberculin test law for cattle, was requested of Governor Dan Turner today. The request was made by Sheriff Foster Maxon and followed the ejection from the farm of Dr. Peter Malcom, state veterinarian, when he attempted to complete a test of the cattle at the E. S. Mitchell farm.

The governor gave no indication of what action he would take, but said he would confer with the objectors provided they permit state veterinarians to complete tests of cattle at the Michell farm by 5 p. m. today.

A group of Cedar county farmers vigorously opposed the tests for the last several months, and 1,300 of them protested recently at a public hearing in the capitol at Des Moines.

DEMAND MADE THAT ALFONSO GIVE UP THRONE

Victorious Foes of Monarchy Threaten To Establish Spanish Republic.

LEADERS CALL ON KING

Action Follows Defeat Scored Against Ruler in Recent Election.

By The Associated Press

MADRID, April 13—Flushed with victory over the monarchists in yesterday's elections, Don Niceto Alcala Zamora and the group of Republican leaders who proclaimed a revolution in Spain last December late this afternoon formally demanded that Alfonso recognize the Spanish republic.

In a note signed by all the signatories of last December's revolutionary proclamation, the Republicans declare that "Sunday's elections signify an expression of the public will for an immediate republic in Spain."

"If the king does not accept the dictates of the public," the manifesto continues, "we are ready to enforce them and to establish a republic ourselves."

The manifesto continues with the prediction that the Spanish people and those in foreign countries will be the judges of the merits of the Republicans' threatened action, is necessary.

The king was to decide late this afternoon at a cabinet meeting whether to accept and announce the resignations of three members of his cabinet which were tendered this morning.

In the opinion of qualified observers, the king has three possible courses of action:

1. To continue the district and then the parliamentary elections either under Premier Juan Bautista Aznar or a new government. This probably would lead to a republic.
2. To establish another military dictatorship. This might mean an immediate general strike, revolution and civil war.
3. To abdicate.

Republicans Strong

The huge Republican vote rolled up Sunday indicates, it is believed, that the Republicans can elect a majority of a new parliament, so that the king would be inviting the loss of his throne if he agreed to parliamentary elections.

Voting in the first elections held in this country in eight years, a tremendous popular outpouring showed large Republican majorities in the councils of almost every city and town of any size.

King Alfonso's home ward, that containing the royal palace at Madrid, went against him, an alderman representing the Republican movement being elected. Madrid, Barcelona, Seville, Granada, all turned in large Republican majorities.

The returns gave Alfonso, who was born a king and since has been victorious over military rebels and political enemies alike who have assailed his throne, the task of answering what everywhere was considered a popular repudiation of his rule. There was no indication of how he would meet the situation.

DIFFICULTY LIKELY IN NAMING SPEAKER

Party Battle Looms in Choosing Successor to Nicholas Longworth.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 13 — Returned from paying last tribute to their popular and powerful leader, Nicholas Longworth, house Republicans today looked to the difficult task of choosing his successor.

The speakership problem was a main topic of discussion among nearly 40 Republican and Democratic representatives during their trip from Cincinnati. Already candidates from various sections were appearing as prospective opponents to Democratic Leader Garner.

Republican Leader Tilson and Chairman Snell of the rules committee stood forth as among the leading eastern candidates. Members of the funeral party said that while Tilson starts with a handicap founded on the contracts made as leader and close association with President Hoover, friends of Snell have begun an active and powerful campaign in his behalf.

From the west, the names of Michener and Mapes of Michigan, Ramseyer of Iowa, Hoch of Kansas, and Purnell of Indiana, were prominently mentioned.

RAGING FOREST FIRE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

Unchecked Blaze Sweeps Over Wide Area in Northern Wisconsin, Upper Michigan.

By United Press

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis., April 13—Fire, raging unchecked across thousands of acres of cut-over timber and virgin forests, spread today from town to town, leveled the countryside in its progress, endangered thousands of lives and caused untold property damage in northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

Around and in Wisconsin Rapids, fire burned over a tract a mile long and three blocks wide, destroying six homes, numerous sheds and barns, with an estimated loss of $150,000.

The fire here started from a grass blaze and spread to a Standard oil warehouse. As tank explosions rocked the countryside, embers were scattered over the town, buildings located blocks away were fired, and within a short time the whole area was in flames.

While residents of Wallace, Mich., just across the state line, were helping save the town of Ingwils from destruction, fire suddenly broke out in their own village and before they could get back it destroyed fifteen homes, two factories, the church, garages and sheds by the dozens. The town was razed.

Eagle, Mich., suffered a like fate, more than 50 buildings being sacrificed there to the desire of residents to aid neighboring towns which were burning before their own homes were fired.

Dangerous fires surrounded the towns of Crandon, Phillips and Park Falls in Wisconsin. Communication lines were destroyed. The fate of scores of residents was in doubt. It was feared many had perished. Those outside could not get into the area. Those inside could not get out.

It was known that twelve fires were burning furiously in the neighborhood of Crandon and that several farm homes had been destroyed near there. Police Chief Tracy said the entire town of 1,600 persons was doomed unless the wind shifted suddenly or heavy rains descended.

NOT SATISFIED WITH RECORD OF POLICE HEAD

Jones Requests Commission To Approve Dismissal of Police Chief.

PROBATION PERIOD ENDS

Charge Lists No Specific Instance of Failure To Perform Duty.

Approval of the dismissal of William E. Marks as police chief of Marion is sought by Mayor L. Don Jones in a report filed with the civil service commission Saturday at 4 p. m.

Request for the approval is embodied in a brief record of Chief Marks' activity during the 90-day probationary period he has held the office. The period of probation ended Saturday at midnight.

The commission probably will meet some time this week to consider the record and the request of Mayor Jones, members said today. Although all members have seen the message, none would comment on it today. It will be considered in a private meeting, and will not require a public hearing, according to Henry Mickley, secretary.

No Specific Charges

Although complaint of unsatisfactory service in the chief's office is made by Mayor Jones no specific instances of alleged failure to do his duty or of his alleged inactivity in office are mentioned in the record.

Lack of knowledge of his duties, inactivity, failure to prefer charges in known violations of law, and failure to maintain discipline in the department are among the general charges of the report.

Although the record carries with it the request for "approval to the dismissal" of Chief Marks, the chief today said he had not been notified of his dismissal.

Although given an opportunity to resign several days ago by Safety Director T. E. Sonnanstine, and faced by charges of incompetence, Chief Marks continued to head the department today.

Jones' Report

Contents of the report of Chief Marks' record and the request of Mayor Jones follow:

"On the twelfth day of January, 1931, the undersigned, as appointing officer, designated William E. Marks as chief of police of the city of Marion for a probationary period of 90 days next ensuing from the twelfth day of January, 1931.

"The probationary period expired on the twelfth day of April, 1931, and I submit herewith a report of the record of said William E. Marks as such chief of police during such period.

"Such record is as follows:

"The said William E. Marks has failed to demonstrate sufficient knowledge of the duties of such position: in failing to prefer proper charges or any charges in cases where violations of law have been within his personal knowledge; in failing to advise himself of the

ILLINOIS GOVERNOR VETOES REPEAL BILL

Executive Cites Alleged Dangers in Approval of Proposed Law.

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 13—Governor Louis L. Emmerson today vetoed the bill for the repeal of the Illinois search and seizure laws.

The measure, which would have placed Illinois sixth in the column of states repealing their prohibition enforcement acts, had been enacted by the state senate by only a two-vote margin, 26 to 24. For more than two decades the state senate has been traditionally dry, while the house has thrice passed repeal bills.

In his veto message the governor said the efforts of Illinois "wets" to strike all prohibition laws from the statute books was nullificationism.

Last November the voters of Illinois by a large majority expressed their approval of repeal in a referendum vote, which was adopted as the chief argument of the anti-prohibition group in the legislature this year.

Yesterday the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization, presented a final plea for the governor's approval of the bill and advocated it as the beginning of a movement to bring "law and order back to the country."

"I am not for nullification," the governor's message in part said. "This act not only removes all laws on this subject, but tends to strike at the fundamental unity of our national government.

"Repeal of the Illinois prohibition act would leave Illinois, for the first time in its history, without any state law for the control or regulation of intoxicating beverages. They [illegible] control of traffic in [illegible]

Major League Entries Line Up at Post for 1931 Pennant Race

FIVE CLUBS LOOM AS TITLE CONTENDERS IN SENIOR CIRCUIT

St. Louis Cards Picked by Majority To Repeat for Gonfalon.

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 13—Another close race in the National league with at least four or five clubs in the running—that is the dope the day before the 1931 season opens. Optimism is the rule in the elder circuit.

The St. Louis Cardinals are generally favored to repeat their triumph but only after the hardest kind of struggle from the Chicago Cubs, Brooklyn Robins, New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates. The concensus of experts has picked the five leaders to finish in that order with Boston, Philadelphia and Cincinnati bringing up in the rear.

While all the clubs have added new playing talent in preparation for another tight race, the Cardinals, for the most part, are standing pat on their 1930 lineup. Chic Hafey, however, remains a holdout and Ernie Orsatti has been given his place in left field. The veteran St. Louis mound staff has been augmented by two promising recruits, Dizzy Dean and Paul Derringer.

Hornsby In Shape

With Rogers Hornsby, now manager, back in condition, the Chicago Cubs are brimming over with confidence. Hornsby has made no changes in last year's lineup but has asquired a lot of good reserves, both recruits and experienced players.

Brooklyn's Robins plugged a few holes by trading some of their spare man power to the Phillies for Fresco Thompson, a steady second baseman, and Frank O'Doul, hard hitting outfielder, and also are highly optimistic. The New York Giants are counting on young Johnny Vergez to take care of third base while Freddy Lindstrom plays right field. Like most of his rival managers, John McGraw could use another good pitcher or two but Harold Shumacher and John Berly may fill that bill

Pirates Contenders

The Pittsburgh Pirates, handicapped by injuries last season, again are rated as a fifth National league contender. With Pie Traynor and Lloyd Waner back in shape, the Pirates should be much stronger.

Boston's chances seem to depend upon how their newly acquired minor league sluggers fare. Manager Bill McKechnie has four newcomers in his regular lineup, Wesley Schulmerich and Red Worthington, outfielders; Earl Sheely at first base and Charley Wilson at third. The Phillies are counting on improved pitching to put them into the race.

Dan Howley's Cincinnati Reds still are in the process of rebuilding and have few hopes of climbing high in the standing. Edd Roush, former Giant holdout, and Nick Cullop may provide some badly needed punch at the plate.

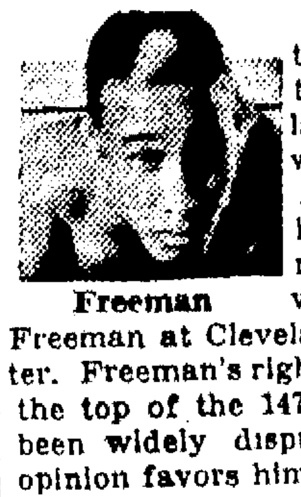
FREEMAN TO DEFEND WELTERWEIGHT TITLE AGAINST THOMPSON

San Francisco Negro Pug Seeks To Regain Crown He Once Held.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 13—Tommy Freeman, rugged battler from Cleveland, sallies forth this week with his welterweight crown perched on top of his head. Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco Negro from whom Freeman won the title, will try to knock it off.

Their 10-round struggle at Cleveland tomorrow night furnishes the highspot of the fistic schedule this week.



Freeman

Thompson won the welterweight title in May of last year by whipping Jackie Fields, but held it only about four months before he was beaten by Freeman at Cleveland last September. Freeman's right to be classed at the top of the 147-round class has been widely disputed but expert opinion favors him by a slight margin to beat back Thompson's challenge.

Thompson

Philadelphia's show tonight will be topped by a 10-round non-title battle between Benny Bass, king of the junior lightweights, and young Firpo of Pennsgrove, N. J., who recently was awarded a decision over bass in a close fight.

At Boston tomorrow night Dave Shade, veteran New York middleweight, takes on Leo Larivee of Waterbury, Conn., in a 10 rounder. In New York tonight, Paul Berlenbach, former world's light heavyweight champion, makes another start in his comeback campaign, in a five rounder with Frank Hornick, of New York.

SPEEDING UP!

Billy Arnold Predicts Faster Cars in Race Classic.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 13—Cars in the 500-mile race for $100,000 at the Indianapolis speedway next month will be seven to ten miles an hour faster than they were last year, according to Billy Arnold, youthful winner of the 1930 race, who will defend his title.

More than 60 cars—the largest nomination list in the history of the race—will be entered, Arnold believes, but only the 40 fastest cars will face the starter.

"Specifications for the coming race are approximately the same as last year but there are one or two variations which will make the cars faster," said Arnold.

Buckeye Tracksters in Opener with Wesleyan

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., April 13 — With recollections of a 1930 victory over the same team, Ohio State university trackmen today prepared to open their 1931 season against Ohio Wesleyan in a meet at Delaware this afternoon.

After what the Buckeyes believed would be a warm-up contest with Wesleyan, they planned to compete against the University of Pittsburgh in another dual meet to be held here Saturday.

JUNIOR LOOP HOPES TO SEE COMPETITION FOR WORLD'S CHAMPS

Athletics Almost Prohibitive Favorites To Cop Third Flag in Row.

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, April 13 — Having watched their National league cousins reap gate receipt harvests for four straight years while they eagerly snatched world series glory, American league clubs set out on their 1931 baseball wars tomorrow with renewed but rather doubtful hopes of a tighter pennant race.

Most of the experts predict just another romp for Connie Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics with only a little interesting crowding by Washington, New York and perhaps Cleveland.

A careful sifting of claims and hopes indicate the key to the situation is held by the Athletics, who have been running away with the flag for two straight years. Connie Mack, perhaps with a feeling of remorse, has failed to strengthen his championship front for the 1931 campaign except for a few reserves while the rest of the clubs have strengthened their forces in varying degrees.

Walter Johnson and his Washington Senators and the New York Yankees piloted by Joe McCarthy who lifted the Cubs out of baseball's wilderness in the National league, are the two clubs which are expected to end the domination of the Athletics if any team does. Of the two, the Senators look the strongest because of excellent pitching, a timely attack, a tight infield and the spirit that moulds championship teams. The Yankees, still possessing a great punch at the plate, are contenders although their pitching is of a suspicious quality.

Fielding is the big Cleveland problem. Errors on defense beat the Indians last year.

Detroit, Chicago, Boston and St. Louis all have been strengthened during the winter and spring shopping season but none is expected to startle the league by winning the pennant. Of the four, the White Sox appear to be the most improved although they like Cleveland, must prove their ability on defense. Detroit has a good attack and a fair defense but pitching worries Manager Bucky Harris. The Browns have pitching and fielding, but light hitters, a trouble likewise afflicting the Boston Red Sox who have made great improvements over last year.

BURNLEY
THE FUTURE ---
--WHAT DOES IT HOLD?
"THE BABE"
--MR. RUTH DOES A BIT OF CRYSTAL GAZING!
© 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.
4-13

Of all baseball's most powerful and alluring pers nalities, there's none to compare with George Herman Ruth who at 37 will start his seventeenth season as a major leaguer tomorrow. The highest priced player in the game (his $85,000-a-year contract expires at the end of the 1931 season), Ruth will be there to prove that he's still worth top money as the greatest individual attraction the national game has produced. He reported in good physical shape early this spring and went through training in splendid style.

The Babe knows he's facing the crisis of his spectacular career—the situation which confronts all great strenuous athletes when the legs begin to lose their all-important zip. For three or four seasons, the Bam's props have gone back on him at times, finally yielding as they must to the tremendous strain of whirring about his 200 pounds of bone and muscle.

Babe believes, if his legs hold up reasonably well, that his game will be satsifactory, for he still has his remarkable sight and much of the co-ordinating reflexes that made him the greatest home run hitter of all time.

In 1930, Hack Wilson, of the Chicago Cubs, beat the Bam for chief homer honors, but, at that, the Yankee superstar made 49 circuit clouts.

Many times have prophets been mistaken in forecasting the finish of Ruth as a great star. A true genius, the Babe's talents confound all seers.

On the eve of the season's opening, there is no question so poignant to fans everywhere as the immediate future of Ruth. After all, he personifies modern baseball and has dominated most of its supreme thrills ever since the World war. You just hate to think of seeing the Babe fade, but the inevitable drama of that is not far off.

In the meantime, every time he socks a homer or makes a circuit catch, fandom will all the more rejoice over this bold pulling of Father Time's beard. This Sport Bug is confident that Ruth will again star in 1931 unless his legs give out entirely.

Detroit Signs Three as Season Nears Opening

DETROIT, April 13 — Wallie Schang, Joe Dugan and Marty McManus, signed contracts with the Detroit baseball club before boarding a train for St. Louis last night for the opening game against the Browns.

Schang and Dugan, catcher and infielder, spent the training season working with the Tigers without contract but were promised jobs if they showed they would be valuable to the team.

McManus, veteran Detroit third baseman, had been nursing an injured knee and until recently had been uncertain of being able to play regularly early in the pennant campaign.

Austrian Nobleman Plans To Pilot Car in Classic

INDIANAPOLIS, April 13 — Count Orssich, Austrian nobleman, plans to enter a French Bugatti in the International 500-mile race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway next month, it was revealed here today by Ted Allen, secretary of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, of Washington, D. C.

"He has just returned to Europe to conclude negotiations for his contemplated participation in the International racing classic after visting our offices in Washington to ascertain complete specifications and qualifications for entrance in America's big race," explained Mr. Allen.

Although the count, youthful, slender, tall and blonde never has raced in America, he has built up an enviable reputation in Europe by his successful conquests of the road courses in Austria.

Single, wealthy and daring, Count Orssich is the first nobleman to negotiate for driving license at Indianapolis since 1922 when Count Zborowski, a Russian, and Prince de Cystria, French, came here as part of a five car team headed by Martin de Alzaga.

Count Zborowski, who was killed in action on Monza track outside of Milan, Italy several years ago, was the driving class of the foreign title bearers who ever competed over the rubber stained bricks of the Indianapolis track.

Zborowski, a multi-millionaire as Russian rubles were translated into American dollars in thoes days, invariably wore black sateen shirts and was to be found in frequent lunch hour huddles with the American drivers and mechanics. He was a great favorite with the Yankee pilots and tool wielders. His accent was decidedly British and it fascinated the American lads to have Zborowski, the Russian, relate tales of European races in an accent almost as unintelligible to them as Zborowski's royal Russian might have been.

STOCK MARKET IN UPTREND

Bears Cause Depression Early, but Issues Gain Later.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 13—The stock market began the new week today with a vague upward fluttle.

Bearish efforts caused some recession during the early trading, but failed to impel important selling and the list soon reflected short covering. Tobacco's and utilities were leaders of the advance. Rails was also brought forward. Trading remained listless, however, and professional traders moved cautiously.

The sluggishness of the steel shares apparently reflected the growing believe that the peak operations of the first half of the year were reached about three weeks ago. Although current operations will not be definitely known until Wednesday's reviews appear the estimate for Youngstown showing a recession from 45 to 44 per cent of capacity, and the closing of its rail mill by Colorado fuel and Iron may be straws in the wind. Incidentally, Youngstown producers announce discontinuance of publishing their weekly rates of operation, which may tend to leave Wall street a little more in the dark than previously.

The rail shares stiffened a little although Southern Railway sagged to still another new low for the past seven years. Advance estimates of freight car loadings for the week ended April 4 indicate another moderate recession from the preceding week.

Credit conditions remained about steady, with call money at 1½ per cent, both officially and in the outside market.

There was nothing new to account for the strength of radio, although there has lately been some brokerage house gossip to the effect that the first quarter was relatively satisfactory, which presumably means only that preferred dividends were earned, as contrasted to a deficit during the early part of last year.

SCANT STOCK BOOSTS WHEAT

Grains Advance Early on Report of Diminishing European Supply.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 13—Grains advanced early today, influenced by reports that European stocks of wheat were dangerously low and that flour supplies in the United States were scanty. Dust storms indicating persistent need of moisture in spring wheat territory northwest were also bullish factors. Opening unchanged to 1⅛ cents up, wheat afterward held near to the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to ⅛@½ higher, and then continued firm.

A big decrease, almost 5,000,000 bushels, in the amount of wheat on ocean passage, gave special point to announcement that European stocks of wheat had been reduced to the danger stage. Simultaneously a statement from the American Millers National federation was cited that flour stocks in the United States on June 1 would be probably the smallest in a quarter century, and that wheat demand for flour when the new domestic wheat crop moved after July 1 would require the full capacity of the milling industry for at least 90 days. Advices were also at hand that until soaking rains fell in the dried-out northwest dust storms were likely to prevail whenever winds blew even 20 miles an hour.

Provisions went higher with cereals, despite downturns in hog values.

Everything Arranged Prior to His Visit to Reno, Attorney Says.

By The Associated Press

RENO, Nev., April 13 — Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, admitted through his manager today that he is in Reno for a divorce and that he was sent here by his wife, Estelle Taylor, motion picture actress.

Dempsey, who left his hotel early this morning and was not due to return until later in the day, authorized his manager, Leonard Sachs, to make the saltement regarding his divorce plans.

"Dempsey is still sincerely in love with his wife," Sachs said, "but she desires a stage and an operatic career and she felt that he was in her way in this respect. She asked for a divorce, so he politely stepped out of the scene and came here. His divorce complaint will be a very mild character, probably alleging incompatibility. It is expected that Mrs. Dempsey will file an appearance and make no contest and the whole afafir will be over."

Sachs said the couple already had settled their property affairs and that nothing of that character would be brought into the Reno divorce proceedings.

Dempsey told personal friends from Los Angeles he would not in any way hinder the efforts of his wife for a career.

FRUIT OUTLOOK NEAR NORMAL

Northern Ohio Peach Crop Has Prospect of Being Best in Three Years.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 13—The Ohio fruit outlook is almost normal at this early date in spring, according to C. J. West, research director of the Ohio Farm Bureau.

The northern Ohio peach crop is in normal condition with nothing in sight to prevent an average crop, or better, and there is quite a possibility it will be the best of the last three years. The apple outlook is fair, and would be excellent, if it were not for the fact the drouth of last summer left many trees in a devitalized condition.

Peach orchards came through the winter without damage from winter killing. Rainfall in the great Lake Erie peach belt was more nearly normal last summer than in other sections of Ohio, so that the preponderance of acreage is set for a good crop provided a heavy freeze does not occur. Peach orchards in central and southern Ohio suffered considerably from last summer's drouth where the soil was especially open to drouth damage.

Apple trees passed through the winter in normal condition in all parts of the state, except, possibly southern and southeastern Ohio. A plentiful rain supply, together with ordinary temperatures might permit a satisfactory apple crop. Baring unusually cold weather for the remainder of the spring, the apple crop is almost assured for northern and northeastern sections.

The effort of prevaling financial conditions on the apple crop in southern and southeastern parts for this year is yet uncertain.

Application of the fertilizer to orchard soil has become almost a necessity in apple production. Early reports from some sections indicate this years fertilizer tonnage may be small. A scientific system of spraying and caring for trees has become almost universal in Ohio commercial orchards, but the expense is fairly heavy so that there is danger growers in the drought section may not attend to their orchards this spring with their usual care.

The market outlook for Ohio peach growers is improving each year, especially because of decreased acreage in the peach orchards of the southern states. The peach industry is apparently going through a process of eliminating inefficient producers of low quality peaches. It is logical to expect that within a very short time peach production should be adjusted to the demand at fair prices

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, April 14

An eventful and interesting day, with things of the personal and affectional life uppermost, is presaged from the strong positions of Jupiter, Venus and Uranus in propitious aspect with the moon. The latter hints of sudden change, the aspect of Venus mutually suggesting a sensational or abrupt adventure in the romantic affiliations. There is presage of pleasant and happy relations, and occurrences should not be marred by a too arduous, hasty or impetuous grasp of joys.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of much success, happiness and pleasant adventure, with the personal interests uppermost in the activities. There may be a happy if not sensational change in the status, but in all refrain from too precipitate, rash or inharmonious grasp of affairs. A child born on this day should be versatile, accomplished and ambitious, with an assured place through its personal popularity, social gifts and original talents. It should have a happy and prosperous life.

CAUTION!

Your Mazda Lamps

Many complaints have recently been traced to the use of lamp bulbs of inferior quality being offered at so called bargain prices. Most of these lamps are of a very poor quality, using an excessive amount of electricity for the amount of light they give, thus causing high bills. In many cases the label of the lamp is not correct instating the wattage and voltage of the lamp with the result that the lamp is not suited to the voltage being supplied. In other cases, a carbon filament, abandoned some fifteen years ago, has been found.

For your protection we urge that you buy only the brands which are marked with the word "MAZDA," thus assuring you of the best quality and the most economical results. The word "MAZDA" stamped on a lamp means that the manufacturer guarantees the quality to be of the best available and to have the latest known improvements for efficiency, quality, life of lamp and proper markings as to voltage and watts of the lamp. Several brands of Mazda lamps can be obtained quite generally from merchants in this vicinity.

We make this suggestion only in the interest of good service at reasonable cost.

County Auditor Makes Semi-Annual Tax Settlement

Splits $783,753 Among All County Subdivisions

Money Dividend Represents Funds Collected in December Tax Payments; Prospect Gets Largest Check of Any Village.

City and county schools get nearly half of the total of $783,753 apportioned among Marion and Marion county governmental and educational subdivisions today in the semi-annual distribution of tax money made by County Auditor Earl Thomas.

Checks mailed to schools in the city and county aggregate $359,332.10, distribution figures show.

City's Share

The city of Marion will receive a total of $41,646.93 for general operating expenses and sinking fund purposes from now until Sept. 1 when the second semi-annual distribution is made. Of this amount $33,900.72 is for operating expenses. This figure is comparatively small because of advance drawing aggregating $177,000 made by the city on the March settlement.

Other corporations in the county besides Marion will get a total of $147,570.19. The county will receive $86,417.47; townships will get $30,756.22 for operating and sinking fund purposes. A total of $51,880.43 will go to the county in special assessments for improvements. Special assessments aggregating $46,572.62 will be paid for improvements in the city. The state gets a $13,515.90 slice of the distribution pie. Township and road district special assessments will amount to $6,051.14.

Advance draws totalling $390,691.24 have been made by the city and various other subdivisions since Jan. 1. Most of these draws, made because of delays in the February distribution, are one of the principal reasons for the total distribution being so small.

Prospect Second

Excluding Marion city, Prospect will get the largest check given any Marion county corporation this week, when the village treasurer receives a check for $2,220.11. Green Camp will receive $279.80, the smallest amount given any corporation. Other villages and their shares include Caledonia, $2,126.62; LaRue, $1,359.63; Morral, $1,267.06; Waldo, $879.93; and Agosta, $344.06.

Marion county's 15 townships share unevenly in the distribution. Checks will range from $4,487.52 for Claridon township to $1,132.49 for Salt Rock township. Other townships and the amounts each will receive include Big Island, $2,658.91; Bowling Green, $1,395.18; Grand, $1,908.03; Grand Prairie, $2,634.48; Green Camp, $1,556.97; Marion, $3,601.06; Montgomery, $2,384.13; Pleasant, $2,303.83; Prospect, $1,945.75; Richland, $2,332.07; Scott, $1,214.22; Tully, $2,371.87; Waldo, $1,227.01.

The total of the township checks will not correspond with the $30,765.22 share of the total distribution allotted to townships because in the individual checks for townships, inheritance tax and depository interest have been figured in, and proportionate amounts have been deducted from each township for the support of the county health work and the county board of education. Other proportionate deductions, including workmen's compensation, have also been deducted in the individual checks. The total amount of $30,765.22 represents the amount the townships receive before these proportionate amounts were deducted.

Marion Schools

Marion city schools receive a lion's share of the total alloted for educational purposes. The city schools will get a check for $86,956.28 in this distribution. Seventeen other school districts share in the remainder, with checks ranging from $12,728.26 for Prospect village school district to $375.96 for the Marlboro-Waldo school district.

Other school districts and the amount each will receive include Claridon township, $7,915.94; Grand Prairie township, $2,137.52; Marion township $5,964.07; Montgomery township $1,344.99; Pleasant township, $2,515.46; Richland township, $4,042.29; Scott township, $1,693.39; Tully township, $3,687.68; Caledonia village, $2,327.86; Green Camp village, $2,949.54; LaRue village, $5,568.20; Morral village, $3,817.62; Agosta, $4,865.41; Waldo village, $8,402.51; Marseilles, $1,308.55.

Other miscellaneous distributions include $4,500 to the county board of education; county health fund, $2,128.09; Carnegie library, $2,313.50.

The money distributed includes general tax money, auditor's and treasurer's fees of $10,409.78, delinquent personal property tax of $1,741.79 collected this year, and local units' share of inheritance tax, which this year has amounted to a total of $3,749.37. The local taxing district in which the estate of the deceased is located gets half of the tax from each estate, and, after expenses and fees are taken out, the remainder goes to the state. This year the state received $1,417.71 in inheritance tax.

When You

CAN'T QUIT

A headache is often the sign of fatigue. When temples throb it's time to rest. If you can't stop work, you can stop the pain. Bayer Aspirin will do it, every time. Take two or three tablets, a swallow of water, and carry-on—in comfort.

Don't work with nerves on edge or try all day to forget a nagging pain that aspirin could end in a jiffy! Genuine aspirin can't harm you; just be sure it's Bayer.

In every package of Bayer Aspirin are proven directions for headaches, colds, sore throat, neuralgia, neuritis, etc. Carry these tablets with you, and be prepared. How to End Painful Piles Without Salves or Cutting Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad cirulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause — that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's prescription HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing, that Henney & Cooper says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back. —Adv.

BRUSH-MOORE PAPERS HOLD 2-DAY MEETING

Newspaper publishing in all of its departments was discussed in a two-day conference of editors and business executives of Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., held Saturday and Sunday in Canton, with eight Ohio newspapers of the organization, including The Marion Star, represented.

Outstanding features of the conference were addresses given by Karl A. Bickel of New York City, president of the United Press association and Jesse H. ## Theater News And Reviews

GAY PAREE SCENE OF PICTURE

The laughs have it in "Fifty Million Frenchmen" playing at the Ohio through Thursday. Olsen and Johnson as "Simon" and "Peter," American comedy detectives and Helen Broderick as "Violet," a strong-minded tourist from the U. S. A. carrying the brunt of the comedy in this story laid in gay Paree.

The story has been worked before, but the results in this all-color picture are quite entertaining. William Gaxton, a rich American and a rival of John Halliday, is from the stage cast, as is Miss Broderick. Halliday in friendly rivalry wagers Jack that he cannot live in Paris and get himself engaged to the girl of their affections, blond Claudia Dell, in two week, if he goes about it dead broke. Halliday hires "Simon" and "Peter" to trail him and their hilarity begins. Theres a whiz-bang scene when "Simon" and "Peter" as baggage-smashers, model lingerie for Miss Broderick and another when Miss Broderick hires Gaxton to show her the city.

A horse race, and a trio of magicians are only several of the complications that give rise to comedy situations.

A comedy, song-revue and newsreel complete the bill. H. H.

PICTURE AT MARION HAS GOOD CAST

Spicy situations, good dialogue and a clicking cast made "Men Call It Love," at the Marion tonight and Tuesday, an enjoyable evening at the theater. Adolphe Menjou, Leila Hyams and Norman Foster head the cast.

Miss Hyams and Foster are a devoted married couple in a gay crowd where "divorce parties" are the latest fad. They're happy until gossip and questionable situations in which Foster and Mary Duncan, one of the gay set are involved.

Miss Hyams returns to Menjou who is deeply in love with her, and who has a marvelous understanding of misunderstood wives. But when he takes her in his arms, there are tears in her eyes and he understands more than ever. He sends her home but Foster believes the worst and is ready to give her her freedom to marry Menjou.

Instead of taking her away with him, Menjou returns her to Foster. By then, they know the truth about each other's affairs and everything's blissful in the Hyams-Foster home.

A Krazy Kat cartoon, a Lloyd Hamilton comedy and a newsreel are on the bill. H. H.

"Is Russia dangerous?" That question invites another:

"Dangerous to what, to whom?"

In Russia a few men of terrified energy are trying to transform a nation of 200,000 agricultural villages into a great industrial nation. And those that mocked the effort at first, because they disliked Russia's political idea, now admit that it appears to be successful, temporarily at least.

Temporarily, Russia may threaten producers of wheat and cotton in other countries by lowering prices. The importation of American machinery appears to have produced extraordinary results. But there is no reason why Russia should be dangerous to this country unless this country goes to sleep and fails to keep up with the procession. We have land, machines, money, men and intelligence and should be able to hold our own.

Some day it will be shown that each nation, working shorter hours, fewer days, producing nearly all that it needs, buying what it lacks, can be made absolutely self supporting. There will be no danger for anybody then, and probably little, if any, danger of war.

NINO PECARADO, professional medium, retired from the business of talking with spirits, confesses that all the seances were fraudulent. Lady Conan Doyle resents the statement that Pecararo called down spirits for her late husband.

The laws of physics are not violated, and spirits can't talk, write, be photographed, play the tambourine or lift a table.

Nevertheless many mediums are perfectly sincere and believe in their own powers, as do rainmakers and witch doctors in the jungle. The easiest accomplishment in the world is to deceive yourself.

Mrs. Kaber Dies in Prison, Refuses Surgeon's Aid

Cleveland Woman Serving Life Sentence for Slaying of Wealthy Husband Rejects Till Last Operation Physicians Said Would Cure Her.

MARYSVILLE, O., April 13—The grim and bitter life of Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, who 12 years ago engineered the brutal slaying of her wealthy Cleveland husband, came to an end last night at the Marysville reformatory, where she was serving a life sentence.

Mrs. Kaber, known as the most unruly prisoner at the institution, suffered from a tumor for the last four years, but steadfastly refused an operation which physicians said would cure her. She also was suffering from lung trouble, heart disease and indigestion of a week's duration.

Mrs. Marian McArdle Henke, a daughter, was with Mrs. Kaber since last Wednesday night, but the prisoner was unconscious and did not recognize her. Mrs. Henke had steadily worked for a pardon for her mother.

Body Removed Secretly

The body of Mrs. Kaber was taken away from the reformatory secretly in an unmarked ambulance, at midnight.

Mrs. Louise M. Mittendorf, superintendent of the reformatory, said the ambulance, painted black and bearing no name, appeared shortly before midnight. Mrs. Henke, the daughter, was present. She refused to say where the body would be taken to, and the men on the ambulance said they had instructions not to announce their destination.

It was generally believed here that the body would be taken to Cleveland, former home of the woman.

Mrs. Kaber, infatuated with another man, tried to poison her husband, Dan Kaber, publisher, but only made an invalid of him. Then she employed two men to stab him to death.

Kaber was found dead in his luxurious Lakewood home July 18, 1919. Mrs. Kaber said she found the body and the home robbed after returning from a visit to Cedar Point. Her story was accepted by police. Two years later, however, detectives employed by the late Moses Kaber, father of the slain man, proved that Kaber had been given arsenic.

Detectives worked quietly, and on July 21, 1921, Mrs. Kaber, her mother, Mrs. Mary Brickell, Mrs. Henke, who had not then been married, Mrs. Emma Colavito, Salvatore Cala and Vittoria Pisselli were arrested.

Mrs. Colavito admitted providing "medicines" for the publisher.

Mrs. Kaber was convicted and taken to Marysville where she was caught in several attempts to escape. Cala, the actual slayer, was sent to the state penitentiary for life and Pisselli fled to Italy, where he was captured and given a 20-year sentence for murder.

Mrs. Colavito and Mrs. Henke were acquitted and the charges against Mrs. Brickell dropped. Mrs. Colavito later was convicted of a similar poisoning attempt.

DAUGHTER GETS BODY

State Authorities and Physicians Make Statements in Kaber Case

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 13 — Authorities in the state welfare department here said that the body of Mrs. Katherine Kaber, who died yesterday at the Marysville reformatory for women, had been released to the daughter, Mrs. Henke, and they did not know where it had been taken. The welfare department has no jurisdiction over the body after it had been released to a relative.

It was learned that Mrs. Henke called at the house of Mrs. Virginia R. Hutchinson here this morning. Mrs. Hutchinson was one of the leaders of a group of women who called upon Governor George White last week, asking that he order an investigation of conditions and treatment of prisoners at the reformatory. Neither Mrs. Henke nor Mrs. Hutchinson could be reached at the latter's address.

Dr. J. H. J. Upham, dean of the medical college at Ohio State university, and Dr. P. J. Reed, professor of gynecology at the university, named by State Welfare Director John McSweeney to investigate the Kaber case, reported today that the woman had an abdominal tumor weighing 100 pounds. They expressed the opinion that Mrs Kaber had had "extraordinary" medical and nursing care at the reformatory. She objected to an operation, they said, on the grounds that her religion was opposed to it and that she did not believe personally in surgery. The report was made before Mrs. Kaber died, and while the doctors said they believed she would have been saved by an operation some time ago, this hope was lost when she became unconscious last week.

McSweeney submitted the report to Governor White.

relieve human suffering in any national disaster.

"The drouth presented a new type of problem for the Red Cross—the problem of famine in over two millions of people. Your leaders, alive to the possibility of suffering which would be the inescapable result during the winter, began as early as last August to mobilize the Red Cross to meet the inevitable burden. It was what far-sighted action and that early action which enabled the saving of this multitude of people from infinite suffering.*

"In the problems of this kind we are dealing with the intangibles of life and ideals. We are dealing also with the highest thing in our civilization, that is, the sense of personal responsibility of neighbor for neighbor, the spirit of charity and benevolence in the individual, the holding alight the lamp of voluntary action in American life. A voluntary deed by a man impressed with the sense of responsibility and brotherhood of man is infinitely more precious to our national ideals and national spirit than a thousand fold poured from the treasury of the government under the compulsion of law. Your organization is indeed the highest form of self-government, that is, for our people to organize themselves without the force of law.*

"You have not alone served a great ideal in our people. You have proved yourself not only a practical instrument of mercy and relief but you have renewed and invigorated the spiritual life of the nation.

"You are inscribing another bright chapter in the history of the American Red Cross; and you are inserting a chapter of spiritual growth of our country."

Daily Proverb—"Men are more prone to revenge injuries than to requite kindnesses."

In saying that "far too much religion in the past has been beautiful, but dumb," the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick probably had in mind what passed for religion.

Immediately following the news of the outcome of the mayoralty election in Chicago, a London cable carried the announcement that King George's condition showed marked improvement! A sweeping "vindication" like that is enough to cheer any man!

New York City is planning the construction of five new piers, each of which will be in excess of 1,000 feet in length. If the United States Lines, Inc, would secure one of the five from which to sail all its liners, American travelers might show greater appreciation of the advantage of building up an American merchant marine.

Getting Ready for Royalty.

Some dozens of thousands of grown-ups who passed through the kingdom of Siam in a hurry via dog-eared geography a number of years ago are soon going to be honorary hosts to the king and queen of Siam. In some cases, perhaps, they will be literal hosts, since the royal couple will travel incognito outside Washington and New York City, where they will be given official receptions. Interesting to note, their visit is considered of such importance that Grover Whalen and James J Walker will not be allowed to take charge of the ceremonies at the port of New York. Uncle Sam will be there.

One adds to the half-forgotten geography book lore that Siam is the only Buddhist state now in existence; that its king is head of the church, and that the government is one of the oldest absolute monarchies of the world. One learns also that the widest religious tolerance is found in Siam; that missionaries actually are encouraged to work in the country because Buddhism is so firmly implanted, and that the king exercises his absolute power with the greatest judgment and tact. Under his supervision and patronage, western civilization has been introduced into the coutry as much as is practical, with the result that modern Siam represents a voluntary and happy combination of western and eastern civilizations. Withal, it is the only coutry in southern Asia which has always maintained complete independence of foreign control.

Of course, all geography students, past and present, know that Siam has an area of 225,000 square miles, which is more than five times as large as Ohio, that it is entirely in the tropical zone; that it has a sea coast on the Gulf of Siam and the South China sea of 1,000 miles and on the Indian ocean of more than 300 miles, and that more than half its area is jungle. The population, 11,500,000—slightly less than twice Ohio's population—is made up largely of native Siamese, with a smattering of Chinese, Malays, Europeans and Americans. The history of the country is rich in tradition and is closely connected with some of the most important movements of the human race.

Add to that the information that the king of Siam is a pleasant-looking gentleman who wears European clothes, speaks English, smokes a pipe and is coming to America for ocular treatments, and the stage is set for a royal visit.

The New Broom in Chicago.

No one believes that Mayor Anton J. Cermak will be able to make Chicago lily-white, but at the same time no one is missing a single move he makes as he takes office. The plain fact is that American cities are none to sure of themselves when it comes to civic housecleaning, and Mayor Cermak may establish a good recipe. His campaign promises indicate that he possesses one.

The mayor's first move has been to order the dismissal of more than 2,000 city employes holding temporary appointments. He will replace them, presumably, with another 2,000, who will be different chiefly in that they will have been appointed by Mayor Cermak instead of former Mayor Thompson. That detail of the recipe, therefore, does not commend itself strongly. It amounts to the unwritten rule in every recipe: first get the ingredients.

The rest of the United States is wondering how long it will be until newspaper and magazine writers start to write about "The Decline of the Racket in Chicago"—or whether tolerated extortion will continue to flourish. If assurance is given that Chicago's new mayor actually has the power to clean up that city, it will be something more than idle admiration that will start national applause. Every city in the country which discerns traces of corruption in its government will be gladdened to discover that the disease need not be chronic.

Good luck to Mayor Cermak, if his intentions call for felicitations. He has an opportunity to show the grafters in Chicago and every city east and west of Chicago that they can't expect to become permanent parasites.

The Speakership of the House.

When the short session of congress adjourned, Nicholas Longworth, late speaker of the house of representatives, admitted that the organization of that legislative branch in the seventy-second congress rested with Providence. How truly he spoke, he could hardly have realized. His death reduced even further the nominal voting margin held by Republicans in the next congress. It throws open the speakership candidacy to one of a group of prominent Republican candidates and removes, perhaps, the only strict party disciplinarian who had a chance to battle Minority Leader Jack Garner on equal terms.

Speaker Longworth was not popular with the "Progressive" element of the house membership, and it is probable that any other Republican, to be elected speaker, will have to enlist support of that element. Only Mr. Longworth had the personal power to contest the position while preserving strict party lines.

The organization of the house follows a regular cycle when viewed in a long perspective. One party gains control, asserts its power increasingly until the opposing party and the intermediate group is impatient, and then is forced out. The present situation in the house, therefore, may be compared in some respects with that which preceded the overthrow of Speaker Cannon in 1910, and with that which prevailed in the sixty-eighth congress, when the "Progressives" held a balance of power.

In recent years the principal powers of which the speaker was deprived in 1910 have tended to concentrate in a group of three, made of the speaker, the majority leader and the chairman of the committee on rules. In these respective positions Nicholas Longworth, John Q. Tilson, and Bertrand H. Snell were responsible for the "regularity" so pleasing to the administration and the country as a whole, but so displeasing to Democrats and insurgents. The triumvirate's methods were frankly high-handed, but efficient withal and entirely sincere. In his maiden address as speaker, Mr. Longworth divided the functions and duties of his new office into two general classes: parliamentary and political. Party service, meaning assistance in enacting legislation in accord with Republican principles, was an important part of the political function. To his credit must be added the fact that he stuck by his conviction—and made the house of representatives like him for it. Though the power of the speaker-leader-chairman of rules triumvirate be broken, there will remain the memory of Mr. Longworth's extraordinary and charming influence.

Providence has made one move. Nicholas Longworth is dead and the political affiliation of his successor in the first Ohio district may determine the Republican party's position in the next house of representatives. Before congress convenes, however, Providence may make other moves. One, wholly unforeseen until recently, is the failure of state legislatures to redistrict their states, thus obliging voters to send representatives-at-large to congress. Their actions, it would appear, will be entirely up to Providence; voters can only pray that Providence be constant and wise in its direction.

"Nothing is right," remarks Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, "until it is beautiful." We know at least seventeen girls to whom the doctor's pronouncement will carry assurance that they are 100 per cent. all right.

An experiment conducted in the national capital demonstrated that thirty-two trees, the trunks of which ranged from three to thirty inches in diameter, "drank" seven tons of water every thirty-six hours. Yet we keep right on surrounding shade trees with stone or cement walks or street paving, or both, and wonder why they die!

A Flareback.

It was unreasonable to expect that President Hoover's characterization of the American portion of the Virgin islands as a "poorhouse" would go without notice from the inhabitants. Few as they are, poor and retarded as they may be, they yet have the pride that every man feels in his home.

The St. Thomas Mail, published in the city of St. Thomas on St. Thomas island, the largest of the group, has taken the President to task severely for his criticism, and charges that the application of "stupid and unsuitable federal laws" made the islands a "poorhouse" —that they were all right until the United States acquired them. The islands were purchased from Denmark in 1917 for $25,000,000.

The federal law allusion, obviously, is to the eighteenth amendment, which has made the islands "dry" and which, in the earlier period of enforcement came close to wrecking the bay rum industry of the islands. More recently, thanks to a more liberal interpretation of the federal enforcement act, this industry is picking up, and gives promise of enriching the islands considerably in the future. Cultivation of marketable fruits and vegetables also holds possibilities of favorable development, and plans for the realization of the benefits to be gained from developing these and other possibilities of the islands are in operation.

Though President Hoover knew this, no doubt, he failed to see the wisdom of an investment of $25,000,000, to which half a million dollars must be added every year for maintenance. The whole thing is out of accord with his theory of self help.

A severe blow to prosperous conditions in the Virgin islands is the use of oil in steamship engines. Many ships that formerly put in at St. Thomas for coal now pass without stopping, and the islanders are that much worse off than they were before. It is this helplessness and dependence on forces outside the islands that probably prompted Mr. Hoover to make his now-famous "poorhouse" characterization.

The director of a prominent New York movie theater told the conference of the national board of review of motion pictures that, while the motion picture has the greatest possibilities for educating the young, the type being offered today is not suitable for children and that he is forced to advise those seeking information about them as entertainment for children to 'keep them away from the movies." It would have been interesting had he stated the age line which divides safety and menace.

TEN WIDOWS OF 1812.

The shadow of a pension bill for the 4,000,000 veterans of the World war hangs over the treasury like a sword of Damocles. Doubtless it frets the dreams of Mr. Mellon, for the annual outlay would run to gargantuan figures. It is logically next in the sequence of demands upon taxpayers by the posts of the Legion. The government is now paying out $220,000,000 a year in pensions to survivors of former wars and their widows, of which $125,000,000 goes for widows and orphans of veterans of the World war, which measure is looked upon in Washington as the opening wedge for a general pension bill.

In itself the widow and orphan proposal represents a large order. Pension drawing widows are noted for longevity. Over eighty years after the close of the Mexican war, Uncle Sam is still paying pensions to 630 women whose husbands fought in that conflict. Ten widows of soldiers of the War of 1812 still survive to draw their monthly stipends from the pension fund.

The expense of the new pension bill for widows and orphans of soldiers of the late conflict may be gaged from the fact that we used forty times as many soldiers in the World war as in the little expedition into Mexico. Taking these figures as a basis, if the bill goes through our great-grandchildren will still be supporting over 25,000 widows of veterans of the war in Europe:—New Freeman.

HEARTLESS MR. RASKOB.

It really is too bad the way the conduct of Mr. Raskob disturbs the "Progressives." The inconsiderateness of the chairman of the Democratic national committee in leaving Mr. Norris and his followers, Messrs. LaFollette, Blaine, Norbeck, Nye, et cetera, et cetera, without a political shelter except such as they may make for themselves, is equaled only by the inconsiderateness of Chairman Fess of the Republican national committee, who manifests for the aggregation—if a group so lacking in the impulse to coalesce can be called an aggregation—all the affection a canine shows for a feline.

But no, we don't believe it is equaled even by the insensibility of Mr. Fess, because Mr. Norris never has said of the Republican party what he is reported to have said recently of the Democratic party that it is the only party —by heck—fit for the adherence of a man of his stamp and character, or something of the sort. Mr. Norris never has paid the Republican party any tribute like that. He has merely used its label as an aid in getting himself elected to the senate.

Still, Mr. Raskob shouldn't be blamed too much. When a crowd of nondescripts professing to be "progressive" indicate by their conduct that they are out-of-date reactionaries puttering about with stale nostrums, they can't rightly expect very much attention.—Detroit Free Press.

A PAPER PROFIT ON VERY THIN PAPER.

The Farmers National Grain corporation, the farm board's super cooperative, claims a profit of two-thirds of a million dollars on its first year's business.

But the Grain Stabilization corporation, the farm board's other big wheat agency, probably loses more than that sum every day, in the cost of carrying its vast accumulation of wheat. Furthermore, the Grain Stabilization corporation could not be liquidated today without showing a loss of approximately $85,000,000 on its wheat holdings, part of which were taken over from the Farmers National Grain corporation at prices away above even the pegged market, concededly for the purpose of protecting the Grain Stabilization corporation against losses on foreclosed loans.

If private business enterprises had the privilege of unloading their wares on the government at prices guaranteed against loss, there would be no commercial failures—for a while. And there would be no United States treasury —after a while.

The $666,266 profit claimed by the Farmers National Grain corporation sinks without a trace in the vast sea of losses checked up against the concern's protector, the Grain Stabilization corporation.—Minneapolis Journal

Walking Is Best Exercise.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Frequently the doctor is confronted with the problem of advising his patient about the most beneficial forms of exercise. Since exercise is universally recognized as essential to good health, this problem can not be dodged.

For the individual whose work requires muscular exertion, we need not worry about the matter. He is more interested in having rest and relaxation, when work is over.

However, there are many persons whose work is of a sedentary nature. These individuals find that as they grow older they are "flabby," have no "pep," no energy. They are apt to complain of various digestive disorders.

In most of these cases exercise is prescribed. It is essential to a return to good health. It is advised that the exercise be outdoors and, when possible, in the sunlight.

Golf is, perhaps, the most frequently advised form of exercise. Unfortunately, though it is an ideal game, enabling one to be outdoors and in the sun, it is an expensive form of recreation. Tennis, horseback riding, swimming and other sports often fall into the same classification.

There is one form of exercise which every one can afford. I can think of nothing better than walking. It can be practiced by the old as well as the young. No equipment beyond your legs and the willingness to walk is needed for this healthful exercise.

The popularity of the automobile has greatly discouraged walking. This is unfortunate. Even though you have a fine car or two, do not overlook the health value of an occasinal walk.

Walking clubs, which were very popular at one time, have now almost disappeared. I do hope that these organizations will be revived. They are common in Europe and should be in America.

Make it your practice to walk at least one mile every day. When the weather permits, walk to work in the morning. Your day will be more satisfactory and your work less fatiguing.

Walking is sure to improve your health. Your appetite will be stimulated. Your food will be digested with greater ease.

Walking is a great cure for restlessness and insomnia. Sleep is improved and the general health is benefited.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

MISS E.M.L. Q—What do you advise for an acid condition of the stomach?

2—At times my heart seems to jump or jerk; it has been examined and has been found to be perfectly normal. What would cause these symptoms?

3—Could acidity cause a nervous, run-down condition?

A—Proper attention to the diet and elimination should bring about the desired results.

2—This is probably due to indigestion or nervousness. Correct your diet and you will probably notice general improvement.

3—The run-down condition would be apt to be at the source of most of the other trouble. With poor health the nerves are affected and they in turn affect the digestion and system in general. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

J.A. Q—What do you advise for swollen and red eyelids?

Our Heavenly Neighbor.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Einstein has driven home to the modern mind a conviction of the difficulties of arriving at absolute values on determining things absolutely. Some people, notably Mr. Voliva, do not believe that the earth is spherical or pseudo-spherical. Some people gravely doubt the accepted scale of the universe, considering it vastly too large. It is really a noteworthy fact that, whereas we know the relative positions and orbits of the heavenly bodies with reference to each other, we do not yet know the absolute, that is, the exact distances separating them.

Until very recent years we did not know the so-called astronomical unit to within 100,000 miles. Today it is believed that this uncertainty is reduced to one-tenth of its former dimensions, so that we know the distance from the earth to the sun to within 10,000 miles. The accepted value is 92,870,000 miles; but this means the distance might be nearer 92,860,000 miles or 92,880,000 miles.

A particular interest attaches to visit which Eros, the fascinating little asteroid, has been paying us the past winter. More than a thousand of these tiny little planets have been discovered. Their diameters range in size from the width of Arizona to that of Central park, New York City. Roughly speaking, the diameter of Eros is slightly less than the length of Manhattan island, but this figure is not exact enough to satisfy us. Consequently the astronomers have been "taking shots" at Eros for several months past, the open season on Eros lasting from December until March.

Imagine Eros moving in a very elongated orbit, the sun being placed away off to one side of the center of the orbit. Eros moves, for a considerable part of its path, inside the orbit of Mars. At its greatest distance it is roughly 250,000,000 miles distant from the earth; at its closest position, only about 14,000,000 miles off. As the earth revolves around its almost circular orbit in twelve months, Eros moves in its elliptical orbit one year and nine months. Once during every turn Eros reaches again the point in its orbit which is only 14,000,000 miles away from a point in the earth's orbit. Unfortunately, their schedules are not conveniently synchronized; so that when Eros is in favorable position, the earth is likely not. About every half century the earth and Eros are both in the desired positions at the same time—namely at a distance apart of about 14,000,000 miles.

It is no easy matter to determine the diameter of Eros, even in the most favorable position. Photographs have to be taken every one-fifth of a second. The diameter of Eros subtends a tiny arc—only one-eighth of a second. It presents a disc no larger than a dime seen at a distance of fifteen miles. From the observations, made with infinite care, astronomers expect to learn a very nearly accurate scale for absolute distance.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Ohio in the Johnson Impeachment.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

By the death of Henry W. Ashley, of Toledo, a few years ago, attention again was called to the fact that many prominent Ohio men were actively connected with the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson, for it was Ashley's father, James M. Ashley, then a member of congress, who, on April 24, 1868, brought before the house eleven articles of impeachment against the President.

Early in the preceding March the house had directed its judiciary committee to prepare impeachment charges. The reports were brought in. William Lawrence, of Ohio, a member of the committee, was one of the five Republican members of it who reported that the President should be impeached. Two other members, also Republicans, held that he should be censured but not impeached, and three others, all Democrats, that he should be neither impeached nor censured. That halted proceedings until the movement was started again by the Ashley resolution.

The impeachment charges were prepared by a committee of managers on the part of the house of which John A. Bingham, of Ohio, was a member. Chief Justice Chase, of the supreme court, who presided over the senate in the trial, was an Ohio man. He took the place of Senator Ben Wade, of Ohio, who, when Johnson left the vice presidency to become President, became president of the senate by selection. If the charges had been sustained, Wade would have become President, and because of this interest in the case, an attempt was made to prevent him from voting as a senator, but he was finally allowed to do so.

Two of the counsel for President Johnson in the trial before the senate were Ohio men, Henry Stanberry and W. S. Groesbeck. Stanton, the secretary of war, whose attempted removal from office constituted the main grievance against the President, was an Ohio man. Finally, it is said that S. S. Cox, a former Ohio congressman, was mainly instrumental in inducing Senator John B. Henderson, of Missouri who had been counted upon for impeachment, to vote for acquittal. As one vote saved the President, if this is true, Mr. Cox decided the important question.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, April 13—Diary of a modern Pepys: Came a letter from President Walter Williams, of Missouri university, to attend journalism week at Columbia, and I should go. Inasmuch as by not going to Ray Long's recent literary gathering I missed the Sinclair Lewis-Theodore Dreiser set-to.

So across the town and saw Walter Wanger gay with a red rose in his lapel, and also John Golden, tanned black by the Florida sun, wandering along Fifty-Seventh street and came upon the boarding-house where I once lived and in which were made great sacrifices to pay the $18 weekly board.

In the evening with my wife to dine at the old Cafe Lafayette, and recalled it was the first place I ever saw a woman smoke in public and as I remember it was Evelyn Nesbit. Thence to a play and homeward walking a short space with Queenie Smith and Robert Garland, the critic. To bed late.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, April 13—Ambassador Dawes' recent remark in London that he longed for the day when after-dinner speeches would be a thing of the past expressed only half of his actual feelings about this matter of public dining, in the opinion of those in Washington who know "Hell an' Maria."

They say that unless he has changed greatly since his vice presidential days he would like to see both dinner and speeches abolished.

He once admitted that the waiters gave him his biggest "kick" at Washington dinner parties. Washington hostesses hire additional waiters when they give a big dinner party. Night after night Dawes would encounter the same waiters at different places, each time in different livery.

A silent friendship grew up between them and the vice president. Dawes would frequently look for a familiar face among the waiters at a dinner party and reward him with a sly wink.

Recently there appeared in this column an account of how that "great leatherneck"—Mayor General John J. Lejeune—got his nick name of "Gabe."

It was furnished by a life-long friend of the general, a classmate of his at Annapolis and one of his greatest admirers. His explanation for the origin of "Gabe" was that the general as a midshipman was so fond of sleep that his classmates were wont to remark that unless one of them ejected him bodily from bed in the morning he would sleep until Gabriel sounded his trumpet.

The other night General Lejeune, now retired, came up to Washington from Lexington, Virginia, where he is superintendent of the Virginia Military academy.

Over coffee and cigars the writer reminded him of this story of his nickname and asked if it were true.

"All wrong," replied the general, "all wrong. And I have reason to know."

A little coaxing drew from him the authentic story.

"You see," said the general, "I went to Annapolis from a parish in Louisiana by the name of Point Coupee. Gabriel, the hero of Longfellow's 'Evangeline,' wandered around in that part of Louisiana after leaving Acadia.

"His name was Gabriel Lejeuness. It was so similar to mine that at Annapolis the upper classmen got the idea when I was a plebe that I should memorize 'Evangeline' and recite it at their pleasure. I did, and I recited it so often that I believe I could go through the whole thing right now.

"So they called me 'Gabe.' But," and he smiled significantly, "no one but those in my class ever have nerve enough to so address me."

BENEFACTOR OF HOOVER DIES

Uncle Who Provided Home for Future President Passes Away in West.

By The Associated Press

PAWHUSKA, Okla., April 13—President Hoover's Uncle Laban, Major L. J. Miles, is dead.

Major Miles, 87, former Indian agent who opened his home to the fatherless Herbert Hoover here 43 years ago succumbed yesterday.

Both the President and Vice President Charles Curtis were "his boys." Mr. Hoover, following the death of his father in West Branch, Ia., spent a year in the big stone residence from which the Osage Indians were ruled. Mr. Curtis, on the rolls of the Kaw tribe as a youth, was under the guardianship of Major Miles.

Major Miles, a Quaker, whose title was one of courtesy, was the brother-in-law of the President's mother, Huldah Minthorn Hoover. His wife, Agnes Minthorn Miles, who preceded him in death four years ago, was her sister.

They sought to relieve the burden of the widow in persuading her to permit the 14-year-old future President to live with them. The journey was made by train to Coffeyville, Kan. From there the party traveled by mule-drawn buckboard and horseback.

Hoover was welcomed into the Quaker family. He enjoyed its sports.

The mutual regard of the boy and the Miles family continued, But Mrs. Miles ordered abatement of the easy familiarity of youth as public honors were won by Mr Hoover.

In office and out, Major Miles worked for the Osages and won their esteem. He saw oil make them wealthy.

Funeral services will be held here Tuesday morning and burial will be at Arkansas City, Kan.

STALIN PUNISHES AMERICAN COUPLE

Russian "Man of Steel" Resents Anecdote Published by Woman Writer.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, April 13—An American woman's anecdote at the expense of Joseph Stalin, Russia's "man of steel," has cost her her right to live in the Soviet Union and her husband his lucrative Soviet employment an an anthracite mining expert.

Mrs. Eve Garette Grady, an American magazine writer, arriving here from the U. S. S. R., said that a foreign official had served her with expulsion papers, explaining that while her recent article, "See Russia and Die Laughing" was not offensive the government could not allow the story about Stalin to go unnoticed.

At the same time her husband, William H. Grady, a consulting engineer of New York, was expelled with instructions to keep his wife out of Russia.

The anecdote to which objection was taken related that a Jewish boy saved a stranger from drowning, the grateful stranger telling him to ask anything he wished and it would be granted.

"I am powerful, I am Stalin," he was said to have remarked. The boy, quite overcome, gasped and then said: "If you really are Mr. Stalin, don't tell any one it was I who saved you."

Mrs. Grady said the story was going the rounds in Moscow.

The two are returning to the United States.

WINS SUIT IN DAMAGE CASE

Jurors Award Largest Verdict for Personal Injury in Morrow County History.

Special to The Star

MT GILEAD, April 13—The largest personal damage verdict ever returned by a Morrow county jury was brought in Saturday by a jury in the common pleas court of Judge W. P. Vaughan when Worth Cyphers, a farmer, was awarded $12,225 for personal injuries resulting from a collision between an automobile driven by Samuel Isaly of Youngstown and a wagon driven by Cyphers.

The collision occurred in September, 1928, in front of Cyphers' home on the Mansfield-Mt. Gilead road about four miles east of Mt. Gilead. Cyphers was thrown from the wagon and was permanently injured so that he has since been under the care of physicians.

Asks $20,000

Suit was filed in the common pleas court here for $20,000 damages and a jury last summer returned a verdict for $10,225 damages. This verdict was cut down to $7,225 by Judge Vaughan on the grounds that it was excessive. Isaly's attorneys appealed the case to the district appellate court asking for a new trial on grounds that information relative to insurance carried by Isaly had been allowed to go to the jury contrary to law. A new trial was granted.

In the retrial of the case, started Thursday of last week, five physicians and several neighbors and relatives of Cyphers testified to his physical condition and approximately 15 witnesses were called by the plaintiff to testify as to the actual collision and the surrounding circumstances.

The collision occurred about dusk and evidence was introduced to show that Isaly was attempting to pass the wagon in the face of the approach of another automobile unable to pass without a head-on collision with the approaching car he swerved back to the right side of the road and struck the left rear wheel of the wagon. One horse was injured so that it was necessary to kill it a few moments later.

Same Attorneys

At the time Isaly was a resident of Mansfield but he has since moved to Youngstown where he manages the Isaly Dairy Co.

The same attorneys, C. E. McBride of Mansfield and former Common Pleas Judge C. H. Wood of Mt. Gilead represented Isaly in both trials. Cyphers was represented by Benjamin Olds and T. B. Mateer, of Mt. Gilead. It is said that before the second trial was started Cyphers' attorneys offered to settle the case out of court for $6,500 but the defense attorneys refused and made a counter offer of $3,500.

After two days devoted to hearing testimony the arguments of the four attorneys were heard Saturday morning and the case went to the jury at noon. After deliberating for one and one-half hours they returned a unanimous verdict at 1:30 p. m. On the first ballot taken by the jury when they retired, verdicts ranging from $750 to $15,000 were suggested. All members of the jury favored a verdict for Cyphers on the first ballot.

At the first trial Cyphers was not present as he was confined to his bed but he was in the courthouse during the entire second trial and went on the witness stand.

BUCYRUS—Jerome's Inc., Galion, were named defendant in a suit filed in common pleas court today by F. W. Faber, Galion, seeking judgment for $495 alleged to be due the plaintiff for back rent.

CHAPTER 37

A Cue from "Uncle"

PATIENTLY and gradually, the William couple made headway [illegible] Uncle and his friends, until at [illegible] they were accepted without [illegible] as a gang consisting of [illegible] wise guy and a smart jane, of [illegible] exclusive aristocracy of crook[illegible] who took no one into their confidence and made a very great deal of money.

Long before we got even a clew [illegible] was more than a mere sus[illegible] as to the identity of the gang we were pursuing, I had attained the honor of meeting all the most distinguished denizens of the underworld.

Rising to higher levels, we also made the useful acquaintance of policemen, lawyers and politicians, and I came to know such eminent [illegible] as Police Chief Morgan A. H[illegible]ss, Attorney Patrick O'Con[illegible], Hinky Dink Henna, and Bathhouse John Conklin.

We worked Chicago chiefly by reason of our hopes founded on the encyclopaedic knowledge of Uncle, but we spent weary weeks and months in New York, San Fran[illegible] and other cities, where the web of our clews enmeshed.

On one occasion, we all set off for Buenos Ayres, and thence to Rio de Janiero, on the trail of a gang of white slavers known to run kidnaping-for-ransom as a side line.

It was in the lovely city of Rio de Janeiro that William made the acquaintance of the individual who was unconsciously to lead us to success.

This was a brilliantly clever and unscrupulous doctor, a Portuguese named Manoel Machado, whose scoundrelly trade was dope-peddling on a large scale and the removal, by untraceable poisons, of his clients' inconvenient friends or enemies, highly insured relatives, or aged and wealthy testators.

Disappearing from Rio, this man fled to Chicago, where he went to earth and, in due course, appeared at Uncle's.

And Uncle, one evening, perfectly sober, but as nearly drunk as it was possible for Uncle to become, was in expansive and reminiscent mood.

Even so, as well we knew, sharp question would have received short answer. As usual, when Uncle was alone with us three crooks of highest grade, William led and gently held the conversation.

We talked of ships and sealing-wax and cabbages and kings of crimes—particularly of the latter. Anon Uncle made allusion to the brilliance and success of one, Limey Simon, an English doctor, and his gang.

Yawning deeply, and scratching his head idly, William observed:

"Haven't heard of that outfit for a long time." We knew the name, of course.

"No, and you ain't like to," smiled Uncle.

"Restin' up?" murmured William.

"Columbia jail, Ohio, two of them. Doc Simon and Chink Dorson. Five-spot stretch," said Uncle . . . . "Spider Schlitz only took one year . . . . But I guess Doc Limey'll work his ticket. He's got a pull and he's got the dough."

Mrs. Williams H. William drew a mighty bow at a venture.

"Tell you a thing always got me guessin', Uncle," she obserced, "and that's whether Soapy Simon got that big sparkler cut up, or sold it whole."

"What, the St. Clair shiner, the Unsetting Sun?" mused Uncle.

I held my breath in hope.

"Ah! I always said Limey Doc Simon overeached himself that time," continued Uncle. "I told him he'd bought a white elephant when he showed it me. Who'd buy the thing, and no questions asked? Who'd cut is up and no questions asked? Very pleased with himself, he was—and so was Spider Schlitz and Chink Dorson. 'Oh, we'll sell it to some millionaire or rajah bye-and-bye, when the hue-and-cry's over,' says English Doc Simon, in his big way . . . 'You won't,' says I, 'and you won't try.' . . . 'Well, we'll put it in cold storage a bit, and see who's right, Uncle,' says Simon, and I was never quite sure whether they didn't get themselves jailed for an alibi and a safe hide-up."

I cannot speak for myself, but I can testify that the acting of Williams H. William, and his wife was as fine as anything ever done on the stage.

The closest of observers would have sworn that they were a thoroubhly bored pair of idle gossips, talking for the sake of talking, and wholly indifferent to the subject of conversation.

I scarcely breathed, and for the want of better disguise for my excitement, feigned slumber.

"Well, well, Uncle," yawned William. "They ought to of listened to you, for when you talk you cert'nly say something."

"Yes, they was three bright boys," said Uncle "and Gunman Gryde, Young Jimmy, you know, was real unhealthy for all their enemies."

"Let's see, Gunman Gryde . . . Didn't he shoot up the Fratelli family, that time? . . . murmured William.

"Yep. Did you know he's Doc Simon's son? . . . And 'Frisco Fanny's?"

"Sure," lied William. "Bad boy, Young Jimmy."

"Be another Fosmano if he don't get put on the spot first," observed Uncle, "or if he doesn't double-cross Louie the Lady."

"He in stir, too?" asked Mrs. William.

"Nope. Runnin' with the Hudson Dusters till Pop comes out."

"When he does, I guess he'll see Europe, eh? With the big sparkler in his pocket. Wonder where he cached it?" mused William as he yawned again.

"Ah!" smiled Uncle knowingly.

I cannot begin to describe how I felt that night.

I was almost happy, for hope dawned in my darkened soul—even though it were but the miserable hope of vengeance on these devils who had murdered my Rosemary.

To Be Continued.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday and it was sunshiny and sweet till Banty came. I got up and told Jubilee to collect his flees because he was on his way out, but I think he left me a few of them. But if a day ever comes when he don't leave me a few of them I will have so much time in which to do something else that I won't know what to do.

When I put on my short britches and went down and out to milk the dummed brutes the more I thought about them the more it made me feel like a cow. They have a vacation all summer and can run around and kick up their heels, and then they get shut up all winter just like I do. Only I have Saturdays and parts of Sundays, so I am better off than a cow, and I don't have to wear horns on my head, to be in the way of my hat, and clothes are better than a tail is to keep flies off, and when I get old I won't be killed for beefsteaks I guess a boy has a better time than a cow, or even than two cows.

These seems to be something about me that gets people to sniffing a little whenever I come around. I must've got too near to Banty when he went to pull the skunk out. I didn't even see the skunk, and I didn't touch any part of Banty that the skunk had operated on, but I must smell a little skunkish anyhow. I would hate to be a skunk and have to live with myself. What I don't understand is how enough smell to fill up a whole pasture can be squeezed into a hollow log. I would of thought the log would have busted.

I was kinda sorry all night about setting fire to the log the skunk was in, because you can't blame a skunk for being a skunk, and it was minding its own business, and we had no right to mistake it for a rabbit; that would make anybody mad, and when Banty went in to pull it out of the log it had a right to shoot him with everything it had. So it did. It had a perfect right to be a skunk if it wanted to.

Banty came while I was milking the dummed brutes, and the rest of the bunch were there, and when we got one whiff we made him go out and stand in the alley and poke his head in the hole to be with us. He said his father had tooken him to the workshop and scrubbed him, and then he had went in the house and his mother had scrubbed him, but it didn't do no good as far as he could smell. [illegible] told him to go over to the stink factory and roll in some fertilizer and that would make him smell a little better. He went to Sunday school, but Sunday school let out early. And today which was Monday our teacher told him to go set out under the hickory to get his lessons and she would hear them when she could get close enough. So the skunk was quite useful to him after all. I told the teacher if skunks smelt like roses they would make nice pets. She said so would little boys. [illegible]

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Hank and Bill Get Their First Glimpse of Baby.

I HELD none of the maternal resentment against my husband's enphews which mothers of young babies are supposed to feel at any slight, real or fancied. I had had enough experience in teaching adolescent boys to know that nothing so bores them, or gives them such a panicky feeling as being expected to view a new baby and comment upon it. Junior and Roderick were at the age where the baby was something most delightful, a sort of super rabbit or puppy, but to the older boys she was an unknown and terrifying quantity. I surmised that neither of them had seen an infant at close range, and, letting Junior and Roderick lead the way, I managed to get behind the boys and relieve my aching laughter muscles with a smile at Dicky which he returned with interest.

"Aunt Katherine! Aunt Katherine!" Junior vociferated as he neared the nursery door. "Here are Hank and Bill to see the baby."

"And she's all ready to see them," Katherine answered, swinging open the door to the upper side veranda. "She's a little lady, wakened just in time to have on a new dress and look her prettiest."

She greeted the boys cordially and then wheeled the baby's carriage toward them. Both of them made a perceptible backing movement then, patently "remembering their manners", stood still and looked intently at our tiny new princess.

A Celebrity in the Vicinity

Junior and Roderick stood no either side of the carriage like showmen guarding some famous exhibit. Their eyes were fixed on the faces of the older boys, and they evidently awaited the verdict anxiously.

"Ain't she swell, kids?" Junior asked at last when the embarrassed silence of his cousins became too much for him.

"You bet she is," Bill answered quickly, and Hank chimed in with his invariable exlamation, "Gee!" adding all in one voice, "she's a fine baby. Say, kid," addressing his brother, "did you hear Uncle Dicky say that 'Spike' Miller lives at Southampton. Did you ever see him, Aunt Madge?"

His tone expressed the same awed interest that a loyal Englich lad might have used in asking if I had seen King George. Dicky, subduing a grin, came to the rescue.

"You'll find, Hank, that your aunt is lamentably ignorant upon some important points. I am looking to you and Bill to enlighten her. She may have seen 'Spike' but she does not know it, for she does not know who he is."

Hank looked at me in wide-eyed wonder. Bill, older and keener, smiled, but also flushed sensitively.

"Spike Miller, my dear," went on Dicky, with the air of imparting information to a small child, "is, was, and will be, please, Allah, a Yale fullback of certain eminence."

The Name Problem Again

"Yes, I've met him," I said demurely. "I know his mother. I had thought of asking him over some evening if we had an informal dance before all our young people go back to school."

"Sock!" Dicky suited the action to the word and gave himself a back-hand blow in the chést. "That's the way your aunt always scores when I get a bit playful."

But his nephews were paying no attention to him. Their eyes were widely fixed upon me.

"You know 'Spike'," Hank said "You've talked to him. Then—maybe—maybe——"

"Of course, you shall have a chance to meet him," I said promptly. "But now you'd better get back to your room and get ready for dinner. You'll want to unpack some of your things won't you?"

"That's right. I forgot. Come on, Bill." Hank started precipitately for the door, an oddly worried look on his face which I did not understand, for it never has been my experience that school boys give any thought whatever to their luggage. But Bill lingered, and with evident effort brought out a question with which he plainly meant to preserve the social amenities, and to evince his interest in the baby.

"What's her name?" he asked, inclining his head toward the carriage.

"Aw! Gee' Bill!" Roderick's voice was shrill in its emphatic disapproval. "What d'ye think. A swell kid like this, and she hasn't got any name. But me and Jun—" I mean Jun and I," with an apprehensive glance at me, "we picked out some swell ones, but I don't know whether Aunt Madge is going to take 'em or not. They're ——"

Dicky's Going to Hear Something

"Suppose, you tell the boys about the names down on their room while they unpack," I interposed hastily. "Or, will they bother you?" I put the question purposely, for I wanted to see the reaction of the older boys to the prospective company of the younger ones.

"No, we'd like to have 'em" Bill said promptly and Hank added an emphatic "sure thing." Roderick and Junior, with beaming faces, ranged themselves on either side of the older boys and the little procession started down the hall while Dicky looked at me with quizsical eyes.

"So the youngsters have gone into the baby-naming contest," he said. "Let's hear em."

A sudden remembrance of the promise I had made to my father prompted my answer.

"I have more than that for you to hear," I said. "Where can I have a talk with you?"
